Subject: Shady Acres - May 2021 Inspection
Date: Thursday, September 29, 2022 1:33:00 PM

Hi Fran,

I had given Shady Acres in Green River, UT until 9/30 to return to compliance or I was going to issue an ESA. I received a call from her today that she is going to send me photos and documentation of inspections, training, etc. by end of day tomorrow. She's had the secondary containment fixed, but now the engineer needs to update the SPCC Plan. She's waiting for them to pour the concrete for the load out areas. All of this is on the schedule and will be done really soon. The last thing is integrity testing on the tanks. She has called someone to do it, but they won't give her a date on when they can come out.

Do you think we should give her more time or just proceed with an ESA? She wasn't the original owner at the time of inspection, and the previous owner didn't let her know about the SPCC inspection; however, I did reach out to the current owner in August of 2021 about what needed to be done, so she's known about it for a almost 14 months. Thanks.
